

In Paris, to Paris* ★

We use in for position, and to for movement:

-----to----->

1 To is for movement

She's going to her nest.

2 In is for position

The babies are in the nest.

3 However... it can be more complicated than that:
Into is for movement, and we often use in for into:

He's getting in the hole.
(He's getting into the hole.)

How do we use in and into? See Grammar Bite 114 ★★☆☆.

Quick check

Complete each sentence with to or in:

- 1 He flew _____ New York and stayed _____ his sister's flat.
- 2 I walked _____ the corner and saw Jake sitting _____ the cafe.
- 3 I was sitting _____ my office when Sue walked _____.
- 4 I came _____ number 53 and walked up _____ the door.
- 5 The cat saw the food _____ her bowl and ran _____ it.